To the Senate, House of Representatives and Board of Commissioners of Public Charities of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to the contributors to the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb.

GENTLEMEN: The reports of the Treasurer, Principal and Physician of the Institution committed to our care for the two years ending with the 30th of September last, are herewith presented and made part of this report.

A careful consideration of these papers is respectfully requested, that the character, condition and requirements of the work in which we are engaged may be better understood and more fully appreciated. It should be remembered that our Institution is in no sense an almshouse or an asylum for the protection and support of those whose only misfortune is that they are the children of extreme poverty, but an educational institution for the care and instruction of those children of the Commonwealth whose peculiar infirmity excludes them entirely from the advantages of our excellent public school system. Its benificent purpose is to rescue them from the dreadful isolation, impenetrable ignorance and abject dependence to which without instruction they are inevitably doomed, and to lift them up to the happiness, self-support and dignity of an intelligent manhood and womanhood.

Having these high and worthy ends in view may we not claim for it the same liberal aid extended to our public and other schools by an enlightened Legislature and a generous community?

As stated in our last report to the Legislature the main building of our Institution was destroyed by fire on the 14th of December, 1899. As soon as possible after the occurrence of this serious calamity, temporary arrangements were made for the continuance of the school. This involved the expenditure of $3,000. The Trustees immediately decided to rebuild. Warned by our painful experience it was judged best to erect three distinct buildings, viz., one for the boys, one for the girls and an administration building containing offices, library, dining room, chapel and apartments for the principal and matron. The several buildings to be about fifty feet apart but connected by corridors and to be made as far as possible fireproof.

Owing to the greatly enhanced cost of material and the phenomenal advance in wages it was found that to erect such buildings as would be absolutely required as to character and capacity would involve an expenditure of not less than $300,000. Realizing that we were to build not only for the present but the future, and confiding in the generosity of the State and benevolence of the community which had not failed us in the past, we resolved to go forward. To meet this large, but as we believed wise expenditure, we had only $87,000, the insurance on the building destroyed. With the approval of the Board of Commissioners of Public Charities we made application to the last Legislature for an appropriation of $150,000, hoping to secure from a benevolent community the remaining $63,000. We did not regard this as an unreasonable request inasmuch as the buildings that remained untouched by the fire, viz., the hospital, boiler house, girls' industrial, boys' work shops, with the laundry and land occupied by the Institution are fully worth $230,000, of which the State furnished only $22,500, all of which is continuously placed at its service for the care and education of a peculiarly afflicted class of children who are justly regarded as wards of the Commonwealth, having rightful claims upon its bounty.

We regret to say the Legislature did not see fit to grant this request. An act however was adopted appropriating $50,000 to aid in the erection of one of the contemplated buldings on condition that the Trustees would secure by subscription $50,000 in cash. After considerable effort this condition was fully complied with early in January last and shortly afterward we received from the State Treasurer the full amount of the appropriation.

Our original contract contemplated the erection of only the boys' wing and the Administration building. After the work on these had progressed considerably it became evident that it was an absolute necessity that we should proceed to erect the girls' wing. For although owing to our limited accommodations no effort had been made for more than two years to induce the parents or friends of these unfortunate children to place them in school an unprecedented number of applications for the admission of pupils came to us, applications far beyond our present or even prospective capacity to properly accommodate without the addition of that wing. Moreover we found that by proceeding immediately with this building which, as we have stated, was not included in our first contract, we could secure the much needed enlargement of our accommodations at a cost considerably below the sum for which we could reasonably hope to erect it in the future. Economy, therefore, as well as philanthropy urged us to proceed. This we resolved to do although it involved the necessity of borrowing at least $100,000. We think the State should furnish at least half that sum.

As stated in the report of the Principal the completion of the buildings was delayed months beyond the time contemplated and it was not until the latter part of September that the Administration building and the boys' wing were so far finished that they could be occupied. The girls' wing is now in such a condition that the dormitories and school rooms can be used. When all are completed we will have buildings which in their substantial character, convenience of arrangement and adaptation to their special purpose will be second to none possessed by any similar institution in the country, creditable alike to the generosity of the State and the liberality of the community.

At present there are in the school 208 pupils, viz., 105 boys and 103 girls. When the buildings are entirely finished and furnished the attendance will be considerably increased as there are a number of new as well as some former pupils waiting to be received. Owing to our limited accommodations at the time, the appropriation for education and maintenance by the Legislature at its last session was for only 190 pupils, no provision being made for an increased attendance when the school should enjoy the enlarged facilities of the new buildings. Believing that it was not the intention that we should be limited to that number when more could be accommodated we have listened to appeals on behalf of these unfortunate children and received 18 more than the number specified, trusting that the Legislature at its approaching session will grant the means for their support. We therefore ask for this purpose an appropriation of $4,500.

It is of paramount importance that our pupils should be trained in habits of industry and in the knowledge and practice of some useful avocation and thus be at least measurably prepared for self-support when they leave school. Without this kind of training it is indeed questionable whether an education is the great benefaction it is supposed to be. Hence it has ever been our policy to co-ordinate industrial and intellectual training, and we are gratified to be able to state as the result of this policy most if not all of the pupils who have gone out from our school have thus been enabled to achieve honorable self-support, while some have accumulated property. The growth of the Institution requires, we believe, an enlargment of our facilities in this direction. We also are in great need of more room for the laundry. We propose, therefore, the erection of larger and better equipped workshops for the boys, while the present industrial building will be devoted entirely to the laundry. For this purpose we need an appropriation of $15,000.

During the period covered by this report the Board has been deprived of an highly esteemed and valued member. Mr. William J. Sawyer passed from earth December 12th, 1900. His was a pure, upright and useful life. Taking a deep interest in the well-being of his fellow creatures, Mr. Sawyer was actively associated with many schemes of Christian benificence. For a number of years he was an interested member of the State Board of Public Charities. In the community at large as well as in the church of his choice he served God and his generation according to the will of God. Hon. J. D. Shafer was elected to fill the vacancy caused by his death.

Death also deprived us of the valuable services of Dr. John Semple, who without cost to the management acted for many years as consulting physician to the school. He was a man of profound knowledge and wide experience in his chosen profession, of eminent Christian character, of a tender and sympathetic nature, the "beloved physician" to those to whom he ministered in the wide range of his practice. Full of years and full of good works he entered upon his reward October 9th, 1901.

For a detailed statement of the work of the school, changes in the methods and teaching force, as well as an account of the new buildings and the contemplated improvement of the grounds you are respectfully referred to the subjoined report of our efficient principal.

We respectfully ask the Legislature to appropriate $114,000 for the education and maintenance of 220 State pupils for the two years ending May 31st, 1905, an annual pro rata of $260 for each pupil. This advance over our former appropriation has been rendered necessary by the increased cost of living and especially by the larger expenditure for teaching involved in the change of methods required by the Legislature. We also request an appropriation of $4,500 for the education and maintenance of 18 new pupils for the current year in addition to the 190 provided for by the Legislature at its last session. We also request an appropriation of $50,000 to aid us in the discharge of our obligations for the $100,000 necessarily expended in the completion of new buildings. We also ask an appropriation of $15,000 to enable us to erect new work shops for the boys and to fit up the old industrial building for a laundry.

All the conditions and requirements connected with former appropriations have been faithfully complied with.

Respectfully submitted on behalf of the Board.

GIRLS' INDUSTRIAL BUILDING.

Principal's Report.

To the Board of Trustees of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb.

GENTLEMEN: I herewith submit my biennial report of the affairs of the Institution for the period ending September 30th, 1902.

My last report was devoted largely to an account of the destruction of our old building and to the temporary expedients resorted to in order to secure room in which to continue the school. This shall have in part, the more pleasing task of describing the new building which has since been erected on the site of the old. But before consigning our temporary structures to the limbo of forgotten things it is only just to state that they served the purposes for which they were intended very satisfactorily, and while many of the conveniences that add to the pleasure of teaching were lacking and many inconveniences suffered, there was a commendable disposition shown by both teachers and pupils to accept the unavoidable hindrances without complaining and to make the most of the opportunities the situation afforded. Our Institution during the short course of its existence has undergone many vicissitudes of fortune, but on the whole has made marvelous progress. Founded as a day school in the city of Pittsburg, Pa., it soon outgrew the school-room assigned to it by the Board of Education, and removed to more commodious quarters in another part of the city, and here continuing its growth it assumed its Institution character and moved to Turtle Creek, occupying a building that had been used as a hotel, and thence in a few years to Edgewood, where extensive buildings had been prepared for its reception. These being destroyed by fire, after a comparatively short career, it occupied temporary quarters while its home was being rebuilt and at the close of the period covered by this report finds itself in possession of buildings which are not surpassed in solidity of construction, beauty of architecture, convenience of arrangement, and liberality of equipment by any Institution of its kind in the land. Here let us hope kind Providence will allow it to remain and grant to it a long and useful career.

It is not true that fine buildings necessarily make good schools, but they cultivate the finer qualities of the child mind, teach respect for school property, restrain the destructive propensities that is part of child nature, and encourage a love for the beautiful. But another and more important reason that justifies the liberal expenditure of money in modern school construction is the greater attention paid to sanitation, which makes it possible, owing to hygienic laws disclosed by modern science, to reduce to a minimum the dangers attending the assembling of large numbers of children under one roof.

The above table shows a decrease in the number of new pupils admitted in the year 1902-03 compared with the preceding year. The reason for this is, that owing to unavoidable delay in completing the building, we did not open school till the latter part of September, and many of the pupils came in after the expiration of our fiscal year, September 30th. Had the record been made a week later it would have shown more than an average attendance of both new and old pupils.

Little effort was made to secure the attendance of new pupils in the past two years for we received a sufficient number of applications to more than fill the room at our command without solicitation. The State made appropriation for the support of 190 pupils and we kept our attendance at about that number though to do this, we had to suffer the inconveniences of close crowding. It will be noted that the Trustees have asked the Legislature for an appropriation to maintain 220 pupils during the next two years. We now have room to accommodate the children of school age living in our section of the State and should like to be free to encourage the attendance of all who have claims on the bounty of the Commonwealth for an education.

This is perhaps a fitting time to acknowledge the obligation the Institution is under to the teachers and officers who cared for the children during the past two years in our temporary buildings. The situation imposed many difficulties and had it not been for the extra exertion which they cheerfully and ungrudgingly gave the school would have suffered in efficiency and the work accomplished in all departments fallen below the average of other years. As it was, though we were not able to have public graduating exercises for lack of a suitable audience room, we nevertheless sent out the usual number of pupils who had completed our prescribed course of study, and who were as well equipped to take their places in society as the average graduate of the public schools.

Our new building is somewhat larger than the old and in order to provide an ample heating plant for it and for the kindergarten erected since our memorable fire, the plant was enlarged by the addition of a boiler of a hundred H. P. capacity. It now consists of two boilers of seventy-five H. P. each, and two of a hundred H. P. each. This addition made a larger steam main necessary and our four inch high pressure line was removed and one seven inches in diameter put in its place. The heating stacks in the basement of the kindergarten are large and perhaps faulty in construction. It required from four to five pounds pressure to force steam through them, while the other buildings required only one pound pressure. To overcome this inequality the Western Paul Steam System was installed, and the pressure required thereafter did not exceed half a pound.

The new building encroached so far on the girls' playground that it was necessary to find a place elsewhere for them to take exercise. Accordingly the garden was removed to another part of the property and the old garden plot seeded to grass. This, in another year, will be in proper condition for use and when part of it has been laid out in gravel walks and provided with swings, croquet sets, seesaws etc., will be a very attractive place.

Walnut street, which forms the northern boundary of our grounds, was graded and paved quite recently. This made necessary the purchase of several hundred yards of earth-filling, and the re-setting of our fence the entire distance. The whole improvement cost about $2,500.

SHOPS.

The usual instruction in shop work was given to all the boys of suitable age. Much of the time of those in the cabinet shop was devoted to making furniture for the new building, which consisted of study-room tables, bedsteads, clothes-chests, dining-room tables, kitchen and dining-room cupboards, blacking cases etc. The printers gave most of their time to issuing our bi-weekly newspaper, The Western Pennsylvanian, but besides this were able to do some job work, most of which was for Institution use. The shoe-makers found enough to do in making shoes for the pupils and doing the shoe-mending for our own children and for the neighborhood.

Work in the Girls' Industrial school was suspended because we had to use the building provided for industrial training as a dormitory and laundry. However a room was reserved for sewing classes and instruction in plain sewing was given by the matron.

HEALTH.

There were fewer cases of sickness treated at the hospital than usual during the past two years, yet there were three deaths in this period. Vinnie Lockhart died suddenly of congestion of the liver, February 11th, 1901, at the age of twelve years, and was followed a few days later by Avery Ramsey who died of pneumonia February 17th, aged thirteen years. In the following winter Zeporah Smith died of typhoid fever, March 23rd, 1902, aged eleven years. Little can be said in such cases as these. Sickness and death are the common lot of all, but the death of a child away from home is particularly distressing. Yet there is no doubt that our pupils receive better care when sick than they could receive at home, for we have trained nurses and every facility for treating the sick that the best equipped hospital can provide and the percentage of deaths in the Institution is much smaller than among the same number of children at their homes. As smallpox prevailed to an alarming extent in our vicinity it was thought best to vaccinate all the pupils who had not been successfully vaccinated before coming to school. We have visitors from all parts of the State so have to take great care to prevent the introduction of infectious or communicable diseases.

CHANGES.

The following changes in our corps of teachers and officers have been made. Miss Latshaw. who spent seven years in our school, gave up the work of teaching the deaf and went to Europe to study music. Miss Bell finding our climate did not agree with her went to the Hartford, Connecticut school. Miss Thompson and Miss Garman are seeking rest and recuperation on the Pacific coast, and Miss Pond has taken up other work. These places were filled by the appointment of Miss Pyle and Miss White last year, Mrs Crumley, Miss Menefee and Miss Bryant this term. Our relations with the retiring teachers was most cordial and we confidently expect to find those newly appointed efficient and earnest. Miss Pyle and Miss White have already proved their worth by a year's work with us. Miss Norris, the supervisor of girls, was succeeded by Miss Purdy. Owing to the increase in the number of pupils in the oral department, Miss Winch, a deaf young woman who had rendered satisfactory service as assistant supervisor of the girls for several years retired and her place was filled by the appointment of hearing supervisors.

PRIMARY DEPARTMENT.

As we are now able to carry out the long cherished plan of separating the little children from the larger and at the same time of establishing an oral department where the oral method shall be pursued both in school and out, a brief outline of our proposed plan may be acceptable. The Executive Committee authorized me to admit children, who are well developed physically and mentally, at six years of age. This is two years younger than they are admitted to most other schools and two years younger than we have admitted them heretofore. It is thought by many teachers that oral training may be profitably undertaken at this age though doubtless the gain is at the sacrifice of home training and a mother's care which children of that age should have. To make this loss as little felt as possible special attendants will be provided to look after the little ones at play, at their meals and at night. The usual school exercises will be required, but they will be somewhat modified to suit the age of the scholars, and will be supplemented by kindergarten work and games. They will occupy play grounds apart from the older pupils, and every encouragement will be given to make them use spoken language at all times. They will be in charge of teachers and supervisors who are wholly ignorant of conventional signs. This special training will cover a period of two years and at the end of that time may be continued longer if the results justify such continuance. It is sincerely hoped that the earlier admission will not curtail the latter end of the school course, but rather will lengthen it so that abundant opportunity may be given to all the boys to learn a trade and to the girls to learn cooking and general housework under a competent instructor.

The task of soliciting subscriptions to aid in rebuilding fell to Dr. John G. Brown by general consent. He cheerfully gave himself to the work even beyond the limit of his strength and enjoyed the gratifying success of raising the $50,000 necessary to secure the State appropriation of an equal amount. In conclusion I wish to congratulate the members of the Executive Committee on the completion of the Institution. The burden of its erection fell largely upon them and at a time when delays in getting men and material made the supervision vexatious and irksome, but they at last have the satisfaction of knowing that they are in possession of buildings that are second to none of their kind in the land.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BUILDINGS.

The following description of our buildings is taken from an article in the American Annals of the Deaf:

The new Institution is three stories high, with a basement and attic, and consists of an administration building, a girls' wing and a boys' wing, connected by corridors fifty feet in length. This division into three sections, it is thought, will render their destruction by fire impossible and at the same time affords all the advantages to be derived from a single compact structure. The ceilings in the basement are ten feet high, the floors are only two feet below grade and the rooms are almost entirely free from heating-pipes. It is well lighted and finished in a manner suitable to the various purposes for which it is used. The walls of the basement are of Cleveland sandstone. Above this they are of best quality selected hard-burnt red brick, with terra-cotta trimmings and pointed with white mortar. The total length of the building from the girls' porch to the boys' porch, including connecting corridors, is 330 feet and from the front to the rear of the building is 214 feet. In the rear of the main building is the kindergarten, with which it is connected by a corridor fifty feet in length. This corridor will be used for the passage of the little ones to and from the dining room. Across the front of the administration building runs a porch in Grecian style of architecture supported by eight massive pillars. This is a double porch and extends to the third floor. Each wing has a two-story porch fifty feet in length and twenty-one feet in width.

The building is fire-proof and is heated by what is known as the direct-indirect system. There are eight independent steam circuit mains, three in the basement of each wing and two in the administration building. They are so arranged that steam may be turned on each separately without affecting the others, and almost any part of the entire building may be heated without heating the remainder. The arrangement is so simple in construction that any one of ordinary intelligence can manage it. Above the chapel is a steel tank holding one hundred barrels of water and kept constantly filled. The service of the city water-works is supplemented by a pump, which may be used in case the pressure is not sufficient to carry the water as high as the tank. Rapid ventilation is secured by means of electric fans placed in foul-air rooms in the attic of the wings. These rooms are connected by flues with the rooms to be ventilated. When the fans are set in motion suction carries the foul air to the attic and it is replaced by fresh air from the outside. Independent connections are so arranged that the schoolrooms, dormitories, and study rooms may be ventilated at will.

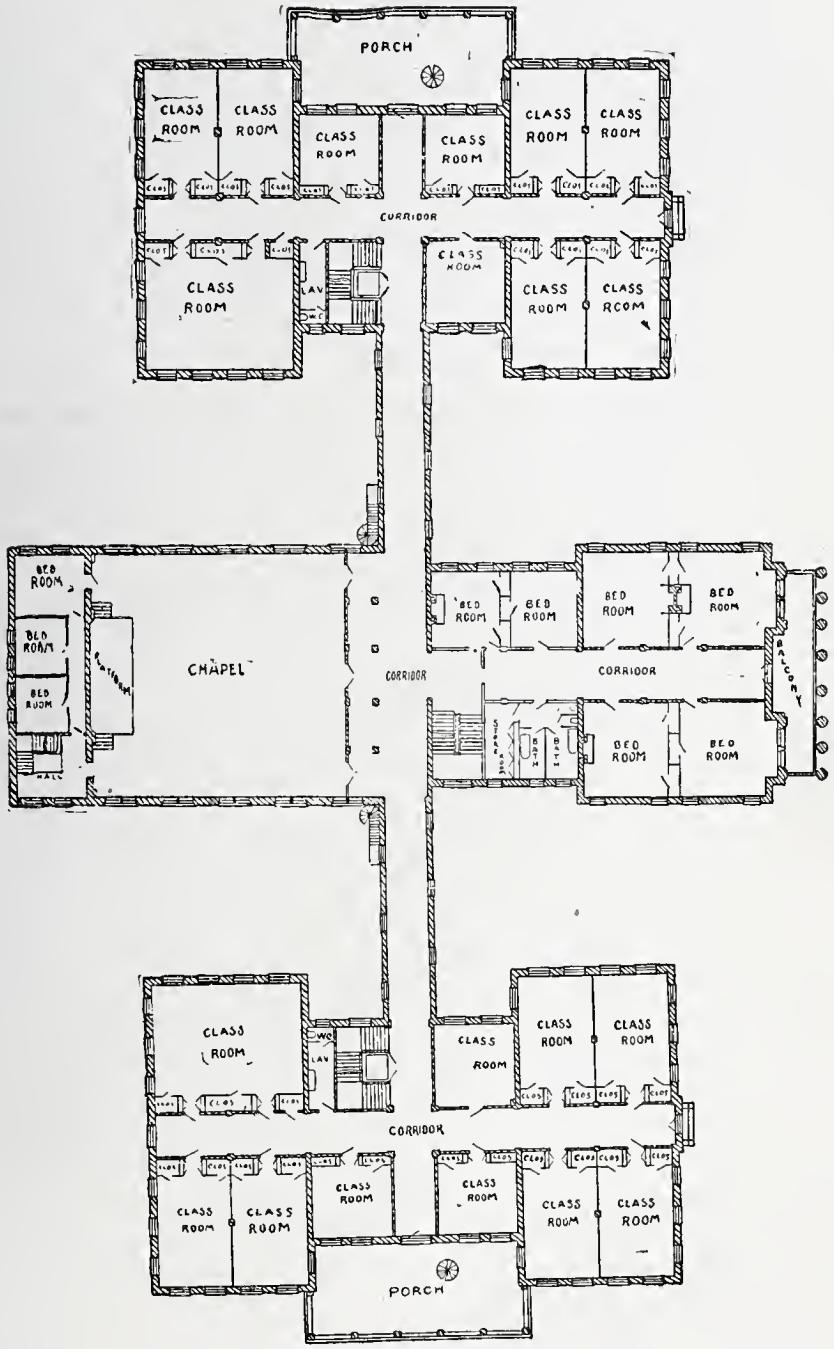
The ceilings on the first floor are fifteen feet high. On the second and third floors they are twelve feet high, with the exception of the chapel, which is twenty-six feet, and dormitories, which are seventeen feet. All windows having northern and western exposure are fitted with metal weather strips. The outlying buildings are connected with the office by telephone, and a separate system connects different parts of the main building. These, with speaking tubes and electric call-bells, afford rapid communication between all parts of the house and grounds. Electricity, supplemented by natural gas, is used for illuminating purposes. The living-rooms are supplied with natural gas fireplaces. A watchman's time-detector has been placed in the office with numerous stations throughout the house. There are two fire-escapes in each wing having folding ladders to reach from the lowest platform to the ground. These, with stairways, give three ways of egress from the dormitories. The roofs of the corridors between the administration building and wings are supplied with balustrates and slat floors, and may be used for passage between the third floors of the three buildings. These corridors are but two stories high, in order that as little light as possible be shut out from the inside rooms and to render fire less liable to spread.



SECOND FLOOR.

The floors and walls to the height of six feet in all bathrooms and closets are of marble. The dining-room, chapel and library have fine-grained oak floors. Other floors throughout the building are of best quality clear maple. The woodwork in the administration building and chapel is of Indiana white oak. The remainder of the building is finished in clear yellow pine. All the woodwork is treated with light varnish to preserve the natural color of the wood. Picture moulding has been put up in each room.

In connection with the plans herewith given a very short verbal description as to the location of the different rooms will suffice, and as the cuts are on such a reduced scale that the dimensions could not be given they are inserted here. The boys' wing contains, in the basement, a playroom 37' x 62', washroom 19' x 29', bathroom 18' x 31', storeroom 18' x 31', shoe-room 18' x 31', bicycle-room 19' x 20', and barber shop 18' x 31'. On the first floor are a study room 37' x 62', washroom 19' x 20', coat-room 19' x 20', museum 18' x 31', reading-room 18' x 31', assorting room 18' x 31', and steward's room 18' x 31'. On the second floor are school rooms 18' x 31', and 19' x 20', and on the third floor are the dormitories 37' x 73', a lavatory 20' x 50', and a supervisor's room 20' x 19'. The attic is used for storing trunks. The girl's wing is an exact duplicate of the boys' wing, though some of the rooms may not be used for like purposes. The administration building has, in the basement, kitchen 28' x 33', paring room 22' x 22', refrigerator 21' x 22', bakery 35' x 18', two storerooms 13' x 22', servants' dining-room 22' x 27', ironing room 23' x 44', and maids' parlor 18' x 34'. On the first floor are the dining-room 58' x 68', matron's parlor 15' x 18', library 23' x 38', office 21' x 23', reception rooms 14' x 23', and 17' x 18', and principal's dining-room 17' x 18'.

THIRD FLOOR.

On the second floor are the officers' bedrooms and living rooms, ranging from 17' x 18' to 21' x 23', and the chapel 58' x 68'. The third floor is devoted entirely to bedrooms, ranging from 16' x 20' to 22' x 23'. In the rear of the chapel and over the kitchen are nine bedrooms. The chapel being twenty-six feet high affords space for a mezzanine floor. The attic is used as a store-room for trunks.

Storerooms, closets, linen-rooms, and lockers have been placed throughout the building wherever convenience rendered them desirable. Off the kitchen is a recess 14' x 28' containing the range and steam-tables. This recess is well ventilated by a stack seventy-four feet high and three feet square, in the center of which runs the smoke-flue one foot in diameter. The stack is designed to carry off the cooking odors as well as the smoke. Placing the range in a recess was found very satisfactory in the old building, as the heat and odors seemed to be confined to this space, leaving the rest of the kitchen a comfortable place in which to work. The inside walls of the playrooms are of pressed brick, red to a height of five feet, and above this, yellow. Opening out of the office is a vault which has an extension running to the basement floor. This extension furnishes a storing place for old books and documents which must be preserved but are not in everyday use. The chapel, including a gallery, has a seating capacity of 500. The floor rises gradually from the platform to the rear. The stained glass windows were purchased with money obtained from an entertainment given by the deaf of the city, the proceeds of which they gave as their contribution to the building fund. In the wings are twenty class-rooms opening off central corridors. Each room is well lighted and provided with a closet and a bookcase. In the lavatories on the third floor are eighty-eight lockers. Adjoining the playrooms in the basement are toilet-rooms and lavatories. These rooms do not communicate directly with the rest of the building, but are entered through covered areas. This arrangement was found very satisfactory in the old building and hence was reproduced in the new.

The primary building is a two-story building with basement and attic, 100 feet in length and 48 feet in width, fire-proof in construction and heated and ventilated by the Smead-Wills system. It is situated at the rear of the main building with which it is connected by a corridor. It is designed to furnish a home for fifty little boys and girls. They will be admitted at six years of age, placed in the hands of a matron, and kept entirely separate from the older children except at meals. The building was in process of construction at the time of the fire and, owing to the crowded condition of the school after the fire, it has been used for dormitories, and hence has never been put to the use for which it was designed. In the basement are the playrooms, on the first floor are four schoolrooms and two sitting-rooms, and on the second floor are dormitories, bathrooms and supervisors' rooms.

Modern educational institutions are built and equipped on a scale not even dreamed of fifty years ago. Our own Institution has been developed in the last twenty-five years from a day-school, occupying a single room in one of the schoolhouses in Pittsburg, to its present capacity of 300 pupils. The building just completed will have cost, when equipped ready for occupancy, about $300,000.00, and to this should be added $38,000.00, the cost of the kindergarten. When to these sums is added the cost of the other buildings and the value of the grounds, the amount invested reaches the sum of more than half a million dollars, two-thirds of which stands as a monument to the generosity of the citizens of Pittsburg. Surely a wonderful growth for a period of only twenty-five years.

Respectfully submitted,

W. N. BURT, Principal.

Physician's Report.

To the Trustees of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb.

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith submit my report for the two years ending September 30th, 1902.

There is very little, so far as my work is concerned, requiring special remark; but I desire to call your attention—with congratulation—to the fact that the pupils for the last two years have been exempt from those two dangerous acute infectious diseases, viz., scarlet fever and diphtheria.

La grippe and subacute bronchitis have been the most prominent and persistent affections with which we have had to contend. The former, with its complications, I am sorry to record, caused the death of two boys: Vinnie Lockhart and Avery Ramsey.

Only one case of typhoid fever developed during the time embraced in this report. The patient—Zipporah Smith—had progressed well into the stage of convalescence, with every prospect of recovery, when intestinal perforation occurred, and death from acute peritonitis soon resulted.

In November, 1901, we inspected all the pupils and vaccinated every one who, in our judgment, required it. This we purpose doing again at the beginning of next term.

In my former reports it was both a pleasure and a duty to acknowledge the professional assistance of Dr. John Semple, whose presence and helpful counsel, on many occasions, rendered me deeply his debtor. By his death, which occurred October 9th, 1901, the Institution was deprived of a consultant who was ever willing to contribute the benefits of his ripe experience.

Respectfully,

F. R. STOTLER, M. D.

611 Penn Ave., Wilkinsburg.

CARPENTER SHOP.

Terms of Admission.

1. The Institution is a school of learning incorporated under the laws of the State; was built and is sustained by contributions of benevolent individuals and legislative appropriations; and is designed to afford a good common school education to all the deaf and dumb children and youth in Western Pennsylvania; and is open to all such of suitable age and capacity for receiving instruction, on conformity to the rules adopted for its government.

2. The Institution is located in Allegheny County, a short distance east of the city of Pittsburgh, and within a few minutes' walk of Edgewood station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad.

3. Applications for admission of pupils should be addressed to the Principal of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, Edgewood Park, Allegheny County, by letter or otherwise; and a blank form of application will be furnished, containing questions and spaces for answers to be filled out and returned to him. On its reception a decision in the case will be made, and the applicant informed of the result, and, if favorable, notified when the child may be sent to the Institution.

4. The Legislature makes provision for the education and maintenance of State pupils; none therefore need be excluded on account of pecuniary inability. Pay pupils are charged two hundred and fifty dollars a year. This sum includes boarding, washing, stationery, medical and dental attendance.

5. Parents and guardians are required in all cases to pay the traveling expenses of pupils to and from the Institution; also, at the beginning of the session to deposit with the Principal a small sum, not less than five dollars, to defray incidental expenses, such as for school books, stationery, mending shoes, etc., an itemized account of which will be rendered at the end of the term.

6. All applicants for the bounty of the State must be between the ages of six and twenty years, and before they can be admitted satisfactory evidence from respectable persons of their neighborhood must be furnished of the natural intellect of the child and its freedom from any constitutional malady that might incapacitate it for instruction.

7. Parents and guardians are required to supply their children with the necessary clothing while they are in school, and to defray their other incidental expenses.

8. The annual session of the Institution begins on the first Wednesday of September and closes on the fourth Wednesday of June. At the opening of the session pupils are admitted, the classes are then formed and the teachers assigned, and it is absolutely necessary that all should be present punctually at that time and remain until the close of the term. Those who enter after the classes are formed, or who are irregular in their attendance not only suffer great loss to themselves, but they greatly retard the advancement of others.

9. The annual vacations extend from the fourth Wednesday in June to the first Wednesday in September following; which time the pupils are expected to spend at home among friends. There will be no other vacation during the year. Parents are requested to note the fact that school continues during the Christmas holidays and that pupils may not be taken home at that time. This is not an unreasonable or arbitrary rule, but one that regards the best interests of the school.

10. Pupils are not allowed to go home during the term oftener than once in four weeks and this privilege is granted only on condition that they go after school Friday afternoon and return in time for school Monday morning.
